11.2.6. Training of persons, other than passengers, who require unaccompanied access to security areas.

11.2.6.1. Persons, other than passengers, who require unaccompanied access to security areas and who do not fall under the categories 11.2.3 - 11.2.5 and 11.5, shall receive security awareness training before they receive authorization for unaccompanied access to security areas.

The certificate of security training must be presented before an Airport ID can be issued.

Please register your new members of staff as soon as possible, if possible directly after receiving the reliability check report.

The costs arising from participating in the security training can be seen in our list of fees on our website www.koeln-bonn-airport.de.

Please note that, due to official stipulations, unaccompanied access authorization to the security areas of Cologne Bonn Airport, generally not accessible to the public, cannot be granted without participation in security training.

An Airport identification card can only be issued after a valid reliability screening has been submitted and the security training courses have been completed.
